A Proposed Liquor Law Opposed But Some by Revenue Agent Thomas.

Hawaii may be abelished and the office of collector of internal revenue fall into Revenue Agent Thomas, who for weeks has been investigating affairs in connection with the local internal revenue office, is authority for the statement. Referring yesterday morning to the proposal to have a law enacted making the payment of an internal revenue tax prima facie evidence of the sale of liquor, Mr. Thomas made the statement that such a law would not only ruin the that such a law would not only ruin the collectorship, but would work a great injustice to many people. "That law," he said, "has been tried in many States and has proven so much of a failure that it has had to be repealed."

Mr. Thomas stated that, although he would make no such recommendation himself, still be thought it extremely probable that in the event of any such concatenation of circumstances as those mentioned above the office of collector of internal revenue for the district of Hawaii would be abolished and a deputy collectorship substituted, for the reason that there would be nothing for a col-

It is the enactment of a law making It is the enactment of a law making the payment of a special tax prima facie evidence of the sale of liquor to which Mr. Thomas especially objects. This, he said, would mean that many doctors would be arrested and have to appear in court, for the reason that a large number of doctors have to pay a special internal revenue tax in order to write down in the court of th to write prescriptions for medicines con-taining alcohol. Also some of the doc-tors, especially those in the country dis tricis, carry their own little stock of medicines, and as alcohol is used in some of them they have to pay the special taxs. The police were telephoned for.

A coroner's inquest was held over the remains at the police station last evening, Deputy Sheriff Rose presiding. The jury ascertained very little acout the man, except that he was thirty-five years of age, a native of Sweden. Al-though there was a small bruise on the though there was a small braisse on the forchead, this was probably occasioned when the man went into the barbor from the wharf. As he was intoxicated about seven o'clock Wednesday night when he was last seen by a shipmate the deceased probably stumbled from the wharf to his watery grave. The jary rendered a verdict to the effect that deceased "came to his death from drowning, cause to this jury unknown."

Customs and Immigration.

Orders were recently received in San Francisco instructing the immigration officials to use their own launches for purposes of boarding vessels and other purposes, also instructing the customs and revenue officials that the boats of their departments are not to be used by the immigration people. In other words the immigration people are to paddle their own cance. This order, it is believed, only has reference to San Prancisco, and not to Honolulu, as In-spector in charge Halsey of the local homigration bureau has heard nothing of it, officially.
